TERMS OF REFERENCE

Hiring of a Research Group/Consultant(s) to Develop the Philippine Plan of Action for Nutrition (PPAN) Research Agenda 2017-2022

I. Background

Despite the considerable economic growth of the Philippines in recent years¹, and significant gains with the reduction in the prevalence of iron deficiency anemia and vitamin A deficiency disorders among pregnant women and lactating mothers, other forms of undernutrition remain a serious problem².

The latest National Nutrition Survey (NNS) conducted by the Food and Nutrition Research Institute in 2015 show that stunting among children 0-5 years is of public health significance by WHO standards. Underweight is at 21.5 percent and wasting at 7.1 percent, levels which have remained since 2000. In addition, nutrition-related noncommunicable diseases due to obesity have emerged as a public health concern in the country.

Emerging threats, including armed conflict and natural disasters affect the nutritional status of vulnerable population groups and require effective and innovative mitigation measures. On one hand, international attention by governments and relevant stakeholders to address malnutrition have increased, in view of global commitments including the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals, and regionally, along initiatives to end all forms of malnutrition in the ASEAN region through the adoption of an ASEAN Leaders' Declaration of the same title.

The National Nutrition Council (NNC) has formulated the Philippine Plan of Action for Nutrition (PPAN) 2017-2022 as the country's framework for nutrition improvement. It serves as a guide for national governments, local government units and other stakeholders who want to be involved in nutrition action as it lays the targets, strategic directions, and priority actions to address malnutrition, among others.
